If this requirement is, on the basis of an overall consideration of a person's professional, economic and social relations of life, met by more than one domicile, this person has to designate as his principal domicile the one which he has the closest connection to.

Art. 7. (1) All nationals (Austrian citizens) are equal before the law. Privileges based upon birth, sex, estate, class or religion are excluded. No one shall be discriminated against because of his disability. The Republic (Federation, Laender and municipalities) commits itself to ensuring the equal treatment of disabled and non-disabled persons in all spheres of every-day life.

(2) The Federation, Laender and municipalities subscribe to the de-facto equality of men and women. Measures to promote factual equality of women and men, particularly by eliminating actually existing inequalities, are admissible.

(2) The Federal Council furnishes itself with Standing Orders by way of resolution. This resolution can only be adopted in the presence of half the members with a two thirds majority of the votes cast. The Standing Orders have the status of a Federal law; they shall be published by the Federal Chancellor in the Federal Law Gazette.

(3) The meetings of the Federal Council are public. Nevertheless the public can, pursuant to the provisions of the Standing Orders, be excluded by resolution. The provisions of Art. 33 apply also to public meetings of the Federal Council and its committees.

(3) This objection must be conveyed to the National Council in writing by the Chairman of the Federal Council within eight weeks of the enactment's arrival; the Federal Chancellor shall be informed thereof.

(4) If the National Council in the presence of at least half its members once more carries its original resolution, this shall be authenticated and published. If the Federal Council resolves not to raise any objection or if no reasoned objection is raised within the deadline laid down in para. 3 above, the enactment shall be authenticated and published.

(5) The Federal Council has no claim to participation in so far as National Council resolutions concern the National Council's Standing Orders, the dissolution of the National Council, a Federal finance law, a temporary provision consonant with Art. 51 para. 5 or a disposal of Federal property, the assumption or conversion of a Federal liability, the contraction or the conversion of a Federal monetary debt, the sanction of a final Federal budget account.

Art. 44. (1) Constitutional laws or constitutional provisions contained in simple laws can be passed by the National Council only in the presence of at least half the members and by a two thirds majority of the votes cast; they shall be explicitly specified as such ("constitutional law", "constitutional provision").

(3) Any total revision of the Federal Constitution shall upon conclusion of the procedure pursuant to Art. 42 above but before its authentication by the Federal President be submitted to a referendum by the entire nation, whereas any partial revision requires this only if one third of the members of the National Council or the Federal Council so demands.

Art. 45. (1) For a referendum the absolute majority of the validly cast votes is decisive.

(2) The result of a referendum shall be officially announced.

(2) The treaties ratified in accordance with Art 50 para 1 shall be published by the Federal Chancellor in the Federal Law Gazette. The National Council can on the occasion of ratifying a treaty as defined in Art. 50 resolve in which other manner the treaty or individual explicitly specified parts of it shall be published ; such resolutions of the National Council shall be notified by the Federal Chancellor in the Federal Law Gazette. To the extent not otherwise expressly provided, treaties ratified in accordance with Art 50 para 1 become legally effective upon the expiry of the day on which they are published – in the case of the second clause upon expiry of the day of the promulgation of the resolution of the National Council – and shall apply to the entire territory of the Federation; this shall not apply to treaties to be complied with by issuance of an act (Art 50 para 2).

(3) Notifications in the Federal Law Gazette as well as under para 2 second clause must be accessible to the public and obtainable in the form notified on a complete and permanent basis.

(4) The detailed provisions on the promulgation in the Federal Law Gazette shall be issued by Federal act.

(3) To the extent not expressly provided otherwise, the republished Federal act (the republished treaty) and the remaining instructions contained in the promulgation become legally effective upon expiry of the day when promulgated..

Art. 49b. (1) A consultation of the people on a matter of fundamental and overall national importance for whose settlement the legislature is competent must take place if the National Council votes it by reason of a motion from its members or from the Federal Government. Elections and matters subject to a decision by a court or an administrative authority cannot be the topic of a consultation of the people.

(2) A motion pursuant to para. 1 above must include a proposal for the formulation of the question to be basically put in the consultation of the people. This must consist either of a question to be answered with "Yes" or "No" or of two alternative solution proposals.

(3) Consultations of the people shall be implemented in a manner analogous to Arts. 45 and 46. The right to vote, as to consultations of the people, appertains to those who on the day appointed for election possess National Council suffrage and have their principal domicile in a municipality in Federal territory. The Federal electoral board must submit the result of a plebiscite to the National Council and the Federal Government.

E. Participation of the National Council and of the Federal Council in Execution by the Federation

Art. 50. (1) Political treaties, and others in so far as their contents modify or complement existent laws and do not fall under Art. 16 para. 1, may only be concluded with sanction of the National Council. In so far as such treaties settle matters within the autonomous sphere of competence of the Laender, they require in addition the approval of the Federal Council.

(2) At the time of giving its sanction to a treaty which falls under para. 1 above, the National Council can vote that the treaty in question shall be implemented by the issue of laws.

(3) Art. 42 paras. 1 to 4 inclusive and, should constitutional law be modified or complemented by the treaty, Art. 44 paras. 1 and 2 shall be analogously applied to resolutions of the National Council in accordance with paras. 1 and 2 above. In a vote of sanction adopted pursuant to para. 1 above, such treaties or such provisions as are contained in treaties shall be explicitly specified as "modifying the constitution".

Art. 51. (1) The National Council votes the Federal Finance Act. The Federal Government's draft shall form the basis of the debates.

(2) The Federal Government must at the latest ten weeks before expiry of the fiscal year submit to the National Council the draft of a Federal Finance Act for the ensuing fiscal year.

(3) The Federal Finance Act shall include as annexes the estimate of the revenue and expenditure of the Federation (the Federal budget estimates), the planned establishments for the ensuing financial year as well as other elements material for the management of the economy during the year in question. The Federal budget estimates can moreover in the case of Federal enterprises and Federal special assets include only the grants towards deficit coverage and Federal incoming surpluses. In this instance, though, the revenue and expenditure for the ensuing financial year for the particular Federal undertaking or the special asset shall be shown separately in an annex to the Federal Finance Act.

(4) If the Federal Government has not in due time submitted to the National Council the draft of a Federal Finance Act, a draft of a Federal Finance Act can likewise be introduced on the motion of its members. Should the Federal Government subsequently submit the draft of a Federal Finance Act, the National Council can vote to adopt this draft as the basis for its debates.

(5) If the National Council does not before expiry of the fiscal year adopt a Federal budget for the ensuing fiscal year and likewise makes no temporary provision by way of a Federal law, revenue shall be raised in accordance with the actual legal position. Expenditure shall

1. in so far as the Federal Government has submitted the draft of a Federal Finance Act, be made pursuant to this draft until such time as a legal adjustment enters into force, but at the most during the first four months of the ensuing fiscal year;
2. in so far as the Federal Government has not submitted any draft of a Federal Finance Act or if in the case of sub-para. 1 above the first four months of the ensuing fiscal year have expired, be made pursuant to the expenditure amounts budgeted in the last Federal Finance Act.

Allowing for the changes effected by reason of laws in the revenue and expenditure, the amounts of expenditure appropriated in a draft Federal Finance Act or the last Federal Finance Act and to be respectively applied pursuant to sub-paras. 1 and 2 above constitute the ceilings of the admissible expenditure, with one twelfth of these appropriations serving as the foundation for each month's outlay. Expenditure requisite to the fulfilment of liabilities must however be made according to their maturity. Pursuant to sub-paras. 1 and 2 above, planned establishments can on the basis of a draft Federal Finance Act or the last Federal Finance Act be filled and monetary debts to half of the respectively anticipated ceiling amounts as well as short term commitments for the temporary reinforcement of cash holdings be incurred. The provisions of the last Federal Finance Act, the revenue and expenditure included therein excepted, shall moreover be analogously applied.

(6) The more detailed provisions as to the preparation of the Federal Finance Act and as to the management of the Federal economy shall be settled in conformity with uniform principles by constitutional law. The latter shall in particular prescribe the mode of procedure where the contraction and conversion of liabilities from supplies of funds not due for redemption in the same fiscal year or from long term financing (monetary debts) are concerned, for the creation of prior encumbrances, arising on the formation of budgetary reserves, in the case of disposals of Federal assets and if Federal liabilities are assumed, as well as the participation of the Public Audit Office in the system of accountancy.

Art. 51a. (1) The Federal Minister of Finance must see to it that in the management of the economy first of all the expenditure requisite for the fulfilment of commitments due and then payments of the remaining earmarked expenditure are made, observing the principles of thrift, economic efficiency and expediency.

(2) If the development of revenue and expenditure so requires or during the course of the fiscal year a material alteration in the overall economic development appears, the Federal Finance Minister can

1. order the entire or partial employment of a special anticyclical budget earmarked in the Federal Finance Act;

2. order, with the agreement of the Federal Government, temporary expenditure freezes for a period in each instance of at most six months, provided that the fulfilment of Federal commitments due is thereby not affected.

Art. 51b. (1) Expenditure of a kind not earmarked in the Federal Finance Act (extraordinary expenditure) or necessitating a transcendence of expenditure appropriation in the Federal Finance Act (non-scheduled expenditure) may within the framework of the economy's management be made only on the basis of authorization by Federal finance laws.

(2) In an emergency, though, unpredictable and incontestable payments may, on the basis of an ordinance by the Federal Government and in agreement with the National Council committee entrusted with preliminary discussion of Federal finance laws, be made for

1. extraordinary expenditure to the extent of one thousandth at most of the overall expenditure earmarked by the Federal Finance Act;
2. non-scheduled expenditure to the extent of two thousandths at most of the overall expenditure earmarked by the Federal Finance Act. If the National Council committee entrusted with preliminary discussion of Federal finance laws reaches no decision within two weeks, agreement counts as having been given.

(3) With the consent of the Federal Finance Minister non-scheduled expenditure may be paid if these excess costs are necessitated

1. by reason of a legal liability,
2. in consequence of an existent monetary debt,
3. by reason of some other commitment existing already at the time of the Federal Finance Act's effective date or
4. as the outcome of additional expenditure or additional revenue connected therewith.

(4) The National Council can in the Federal Finance Act authorize the Federal Finance Minister to consent to non-scheduled expenditure other than specified in para. 3 above. This authorization may only be given provided that the transcendence is factually linked to conditions and in terms of figures is definite or calculable as well as relating to expenditure

1. whose realignment is, without the structure of the Federal budget estimates being substantially altered thereby, necessitated on account of unpredictable emergency, or
2. which becomes necessary if during the course of the fiscal year a material change in the overall economic development appears (Art. 51a para. 2) or
3. which in the light of the overall total expenditure figure foreseen in the Federal Finance Act is of negligible importance.

(5) An excess of expenditure by reason of this Article's provisions may be only agreed to or consented if the coverage is secured by savings or by additional revenue.

(6) In the case of defence extraordinary expenditure and non-scheduled expenditure for the purposes of universal national defence (Art. 9a) may within a fiscal year be made to the extent of ten per cent all told of the overall expenditure figure foreseen in the Federal Finance Act by reason of an ordinance by the Federal Government agreed with the National Council committee entrusted with preliminary discussion of Federal finance laws. In so far as the coverage for such excess expenditure cannot be ensured by savings or additional revenue, the ordinance shall authorize the Federal Finance Minister to effect the requisite coverage by the contraction or conversion of monetary debts.

Art. 51c. (1) The participation of the National Council in the management of the economy pursuant to Art. 51b and para. 2 below is incumbent on the National Council committee entrusted with the preparation of Federal finance laws. It can delegate specific tasks to a standing sub-committee on which it is incumbent to participate too in the management of the economy if the National Council is dissolved by the Federal President in accordance with Art. 29 para. 1. The committee entrusted with preliminary discussion of Federal finance laws or else its standing sub-committee shall also be convened outside National Council sessions (Art. 28) if the need arises. The detailed provisions are settled by the Federal law on the National Council's Standing Orders.

(2) The Federal Minister of Finance shall report quarterly to the National Council committee cited in para. 1 above on the measures taken pursuant to Art. 51a para. 2 as well as Art. 51b paras. 2 to 4. Further reports shall be delivered to this committee in conformity with special Federal legal provisions.

Art 52. (1) The National Council and the Federal Council are entitled to examine the administration of affairs by the Federal Government, to interrogate its members about all subjects pertaining to execution, and to demand all relevant information as well as to ventilate in resolutions their wishes about exercise of the executive power.

(2) Rights of control pursuant to para. 1 hold good as regards the Federal Government and its members likewise in respect of enterprises in which the Federation has a participation of at least fifty per cent in the share, stock, or equity capital and which is subject to the control of the Public Audit Office. Such a financial participation shall be deemed equivalent to the domination of enterprises by way of different financial or other economic or organizational measures. This applies also to enterprises at every further level where the prerequisites pursuant to this paragraph are on hand.

(3) Every member of the National Council and the Federal Council is entitled during the sessions of the National Council and the Federal Council to address brief oral questions to members of the Federal Government.

(4) The detailed regulation respecting the right of interrogation will be settled by the Federal law on the National Council's Standing Orders as well as in the Federal Council's Standing Orders.

Art. 52a. (1) The National Council's competent committees elect two standing sub-committees of inquiry to review measures for the safeguard of constitutionally established agencies as well as their operative capacity and intelligence measures to secure the country's military defence. Each sub-committee must include at least one member from each of the parties represented in the Main Committee of the National Council.

(2) The standing sub-committees are empowered to require from the competent Federal Ministers all relevant information and insight into the relevant materials. This does not apply to information and material, in particular about sources, whose disclosure would endanger national security or the safety of individuals.

(3) The standing sub-committees can, if need be, meet at times others than those of National Council sessions.

(4) The Federal law on the National Council's Standing Orders settles detailed provisions.

Art. 52b. (1) For the scrutiny of a particular proceeding in a matter relating to the Federal financial administration the Committee constituted pursuant to Art. 126d para. 2 elects a Standing Sub-Committee. At least one member from every party represented in the National Council's Main Committee must belong to this Sub-Committee.

(2) The detailed provisions are settled by the Federal law on the National Council's Standing Orders.

Art. 53. (1) The National Council can by resolution set up committees of inquiry.

(2) The detailed regulations respecting the establishment of, and the procedure for, committees of inquiry will be settled by the Federal law on the National Council's Standing Orders.

(3) The courts and all other authorities are obliged to comply with the request of these committees to take evidence; all public departments must on demand produce their files.

Art. 54. Repealed.

Art. 55. (1) The National Council elects its Main Committee from its members in accordance with the principle of proportional representation.

(2) Should the need arise, the Main Committee shall be convoked also between sessions of the National Council (Art. 28).

(3) The Main Committee elects from its members a Standing Sub-Committee upon which devolve the powers stipulated by this Law. The election takes place in accordance with proportional representation; respect for this principle must nonetheless allow for inclusion in the Sub-Committee of at least one member of every party represented in the Main Committee. The Federal law on the Standing Orders of the National Council must provide that the Standing Sub-Committee can be convoked and can meet at any time. If the National Council in accordance with Art. 29 para. 2 is dissolved by the Federal President, participation in the executive power which in accordance with this Law otherwise lies with the National Council (Main Committee) devolves upon the Standing Sub-Committee.

(4) It can be stipulated by Federal law that certain general acts of the Federal Government or a Federal Minister need the agreement of the Main Committee as well as that reports be rendered to the Main Committee by the Federal Government or a Federal Minister. More detailed provisions, especially if no agreement is reached, are settled by the Federal Law on the National Council's Standing Orders.

(5) As regards ordinances by the competent Federal minister concerning control measures for safeguarding undisturbed production or the supply of the population and other consumers with essential economic and consumer goods, provision shall be made for obtaining the consent of the National Council's Main Committee; in an emergency and for the repeal of such ordinances, special regulations may be adopted. Resolutions of the Main Committee approving such ordinances can only be adopted in the presence of at least half of its members and by a two-thirds majority of the votes cast.

F. Status of Members of the National Council and the Federal Council

Art. 56. (1) The members of the National Council and the members of the Federal Council are bound in the exercise of their function by no mandate.

(2) If a member of the Federal Government or a State Secretary has relinquished his seat as a member of the National Council, the competent electoral board shall again assign him the seat when he has left office, in the cases of Art. 71 after release from entrustment with continuation of the administration, provided that he has not within eight days advised the board of his disclaimer to the renewed exercise of his mandate.

(3) This renewed assignment ends the mandate of that National Council member who has held the seat of the temporarily retired member in so far as another, subsequent National Council member did not on the occasion of nomination to the seat in the same constituency declare to the electoral board his wish to exercise the mandate as deputy for the temporarily retired member of the National Council.

(4) Paras. 2 and 3 also hold good if a member of the Federal Government or a State Secretary has not accepted his election to membership of the National Council.

Art. 57. (1) The members of the National Council may never be made responsible for votes cast in the exercise of their function and only by the National Council on the grounds of oral or written utterances made in the course of their function.

(2) The members of the National Council may on the ground of a criminal offence – the case of apprehension in the act of committing a crime excepted – be arrested only with the consent of the National Council. Domiciliary visitations of National Council members likewise require the National Council's consent.

(3) Legal action on the ground of a criminal offence may otherwise without the National Council's consent be taken against members of the National Council only if it is manifestly not connected with the political activity of the member in question. The authority concerned must however seek a decision by the National Council on the existence of such a connection if the member in question or a third of the members belonging to the Standing Committee entrusted with these matters so demands. Every act of legal process shall in the case of such a demand immediately cease or be discontinued.

(4) In all these cases the consent of the National Council counts as granted if within eight weeks it has not given a ruling on an appropriate request by the authority competent for the institution of legal action; the President, with a view to the National Council's adoption of a resolution in good time, shall at the latest put such a request to the vote on the day but one before expiry of the deadline. The latter does not include the period when the National Council is not in session.

(5) In case of a member's apprehension in the act of committing a crime, the authority concerned must immediately notify the President of the National Council of the occurrence of the arrest. If the National Council or when it is not in session the Standing Committee entrusted with these matters so demands, the arrest must be suspended or the legal process as a whole be dropped.

(6) The immunity of members ends with the day of the meeting of the newly elected National Council, that of functionaries of the National Council whose tenure of office extends beyond this date on the expiry of this term of office.

(7) The detailed provisions are settled by the Federal law on the National Council's Standing Orders.

Art. 58. The members of the Federal Council enjoy for the whole duration of their tenure of office the immunity of the members of the Diet which has delegated them.

Art. 59. No member of the National Council, the Federal Council or the European Parliament can simultaneously belong to one of the two other representative bodies.

Art. 59a. (1) A public employee who seeks a seat in the National Council shall be granted the time necessary for the canvassing of votes.

(2) A public employee who is a member of the National Council or the Federal Council shall, at his request, be granted leave of absence or be retired for the time necessary for the fulfilment of his membership duties. During leave of absence, pay shall correspond to the amount of work actually performed within the framework of service duties, but shall not exceed 75 per cent of total pay; this limit also applies if no use is made either of leave of absence or retirement. Retirement entails the termination of all service-related payments.

(3) If it is not possible for a public employee to be appointed to his previous post because of the fulfilment of his membership duties, he is entitled to be assigned a reasonably equivalent – if he agrees, also a not equivalent – activity. The pay shall be determined by the activity actually performed by the employee.

Art. 59b. (1) To control the pay of public employees who have been elected members of the National Council or Federal Council, a Commission will be set up under the auspices of the Parliamentary Staff. The Commission consists of:

1. one representative nominated by each of the Presidents of the National Council,
2. two representatives nominated by the President of the Federal Council with the consent of the Vice-Presidents,
3. two representatives of the Laender,
4. two representatives of the municipalities, and
5. one member who previously exercised a judicial function.

The members in accordance with subparas 3 to 5 shall be appointed by the Federal President; in its recommendation (Art. 67) regarding subpara. 3, the Federal Government shall be bound by a joint recommendation by the Governors and regarding subpara. 4 by a recommendation by the Austrian Federation of Local Authorities and a recommendation by the Austrian Union of Towns. The members of the Commission according to subparas 1 to 4 must be persons who previously exercised a function within the meaning of Art. 19 para. 2. A persons who pursues a gainful occupation cannot be a member of the Commission. Membership in the Commission terminates with the expiry of the legislative period, but not before a new member has been nominated or appointed.

(2) At the request of a public employee, who is a member of the National Council or the Federal Council, or at the request of his employing authority, the Commission gives an opinion on disputes arising between the public employee and his employing authority in the execution of Article 59a or in respect of regulations issued in its implementation. The Commission also gives opinions on such disputes arising between a judge and chamber or a commission within the meaning of Art. 87 para. 2 as well as on disputes arising between a member of the National Council or the Federal Council and the President of the National Council in the execution of Art. 30 para. 3.

(3) The member of the National Council or Federal Council who is a public employee is obliged to inform the Commission each year about the arrangement he has made in respect of his leave of absence or retirement in accordance with Art. 59a and how the work to be performed by him will be reviewed. Art. 53 para. 3 shall analogously apply to inquiries by the Commission. The Commission furnishes itself with Standing Orders. Each year, the Commission shall file a report with the National Council – as far as members of the Federal Council are concerned, with the Federal Council -, which shall be published.

Chapter III

Federal Execution

A. Administration

1. The Federal President

Art. 60. (1) The Federal President is elected by the nation on the basis of equal, direct, secret and personal suffrage. If there is only one candidate, the election shall take place by way of referendum. Anyone with National Council suffrage is entitled to vote. Voting in the election is compulsory in Federal Laender where Land law so provides; detailed provisions about the electoral procedure and possible compulsory voting will be established by a Federal law. This same law shall in particular lay down the reasons held to excuse non-participation in the election regardless of compulsory voting.

(2) The candidate who polls more than half of all valid votes has been elected. If no such majority results, a second ballot takes place. Votes in this can validly be cast only for one of the two candidates who have polled the most votes in the first ballot.

(3) Only a person who has National Council suffrage and was thirty-five years old before expiry of election day can be elected Federal President. Members of reigning houses or of formerly regnant families are excluded from eligibility.

(4) The result of the election of the Federal President shall be officially published by the Federal Chancellor.

(5) The Federal President holds office for six years. Re-election for the immediately following term of office is admissible once only.

(6) Before expiry of his term of office the Federal President can be deposed by referendum. The referendum shall be held if the Federal Assembly so demands. The Federal Assembly shall be convoked by the Federal Chancellor for this purpose if the National Council has passed such a motion. The National Council vote requires the presence of at least half the members and a majority of two thirds of the votes cast. By such a National Council vote the Federal President is prevented from the further exercise of his office. Rejection by the referendum of the deposition holds good as a new election and entails the dissolution of the National Council (Art. 29 para. 1). In this instance too the Federal President's total term of office may not exceed twelve years.

Art. 61. (1) During his tenure of office the Federal President may not belong to any popular representative body nor exercise any other occupation.

(2) The title "Federal President" may not – even with an addition or in the context of another designation – be used by anyone else. It is safeguarded by law.

Art. 62. (1) On his assumption of office the Federal President renders the following affirmation before the Federal Assembly:

"I solemnly promise that I shall faithfully observe the Constitution and all the laws of the Republic and shall fulfill my duty to the best of my knowledge and belief."

(2) The addition of a religious asseveration is admissible.

Art. 63. (1) The institution of legal process against the Federal President is only admissible if the Federal Assembly has agreed.

(2) The application for the institution of legal process against the Federal President shall be filed by the competent authority with the National Council which votes whether the Federal Assembly shall deal with the matter. If the National Council pronounces in favour of this, the Federal Chancellor must immediately convoke the Federal Assembly.

Art. 64. (1) All the Federal President's responsibilities, should he be prevented from their discharge, pass in the first instance to the Federal Chancellor. If the impediment lasts longer than twenty days or if pursuant to Art. 60 para. 6 the Federal President is prevented from the discharge of his office, the President, the Second President, and the Third President of the National Council acting as a committee shall undertake the responsibilities of the Federal President. The same holds good if the position of the Federal President is continuously in abeyance.

(2) The committee entrusted according to para. 1 above with the exercise of the Federal President's functions decides by majority vote. Chairmanship of the committee devolves on the President of the National Council, likewise its representation in public.

(3) If one or are two of the National Council's Presidents prevented from the discharge of their responsibilities or is their position continuously in abeyance, the committee still constitutes a quorum even without their participation; in the event of a tie, the President senior in rank has the casting vote.

(4) In case the position of the Federal President is continuously in abeyance, the Federal Government shall immediately arrange the election of the new Federal President; after the ensuing election the committee shall without delay convoke the Federal Assembly for the affirmation of the Federal President.

Art. 65. (1) The Federal President represents the Republic internationally, receives and accredits envoys, sanctions the appointment of foreign consuls, appoints the consular representatives of the Republic abroad and concludes treaties. (5) Whoever alleges infringement of his rights through the ruling of a municipal authority in matters pertaining to its own sphere of competence can, after exhaustion of all channels of appeal (Art. 118 para. 4), within two weeks after issue of the ruling make representations against it to the supervisory authority. Only a state of affairs which unequivocally justifies the preference of supra-local interests may come into consideration as a reason for withholding the sanction.

(9) The municipality has the status of a party to supervisory authority proceedings; it is entitled to lodge complaint with the Administrative Court (Arts. 131 and 132) and with the Constitutional Court (Art. 144) against the supervisory authority.

- b) was issued by an authority without competence in the matter, or

c) was published in a manner contrary to law, it shall rescind the whole ordinance as illegal. This does not hold good if rescission of the whole ordinance manifestly runs contrary to the legitimate interests of the litigant who has filed an application pursuant to the last sentence in para. 1 above or whose suit has been the occasion for the initiation of ex officio examination proceedings into the ordinance.

(4) If the ordinance has at the time of the Constitutional Court's delivery of its judgment already been repealed and the proceedings were initiated ex officio or the application was filed by a court, by an independent administrative panel, by the Federal Procurement Authority or an applicant alleging direct infringement of his personal rights through the ordinance's illegality the Court must pronounce whether the ordinance contravened the law. It pronounces unlawfulness of such promulgations of any of the Laender also upon request of the Federal Government and unlawfulness of such promulgations of the Federation also upon request of a government of any of the Laender. It pronounces furthermore unlawfulness of such promulgations also when an application alleges direct infringement of personal rights by such unlawfulness in so far as the promulgation has become operative against the applicant without the delivery of a judicial decision or the issue of a ruling. A Land constitutional law can provide that such a right of application as regards the unconstitutionality of Land laws lies with one third of the Diet's members. The Court pronounces furthermore whether laws are unconstitutional when an application alleges direct infringement of personal rights through such unconstitutionality in so far as the law has become operative for the applicant without the delivery of a judicial decision or the issue of a ruling; Art. 89 para. 3 applies analogously to such applications.

(2) If the litigant in a suit lodged with the Constitutional Court, entailing application of a law by the Court, receives satisfaction, the proceedings initiated to examine the law's constitutionality shall nevertheless continue.

(3) The Constitutional Court may rescind a law as unconstitutional only to the extent that its rescission was expressly submitted or the Court would have to apply the law in the suit pending with it. If however the Court concludes that the whole law was enacted by a legislative authority unqualified in accordance with the allocation of competence or published in an unconstitutional manner, it shall rescind the whole law as unconstitutional. This does not hold good if rescission of the whole law manifestly runs contrary to the legitimate interests of the litigant who has filed an application pursuant to the last sentence in para. 1 above or whose suit has been the occasion for the initiation of ex officio examination proceedings into the law.

(4) If the law has at the time of the Constitutional Court's delivery of its judgment already been repealed and the proceedings were initiated ex officio or the application filed by a court, by an independent administrative panel, by the Federal Procurement Authority or by an applicant alleging direct infringement of personal rights through the law's unconstitutionality, the Court must pronounce whether the law was unconstitutional. This applies analogously in the case of a pronouncement pursuant to para. 4 above. The rescission enters into force upon expiry of the day of publication if the Court does not set a deadline for the rescission. This deadline may not exceed eighteen months.

(6) If a law is rescinded as unconstitutional by a judgment of the Constitutional Court, the legal provisions rescinded by the law which the Court has pronounced unconstitutional become effective again unless the judgment pronounces otherwise, on the day of entry into force of the rescission. The publication on the rescission of the law shall also announce whether and which legal provisions again enter into force.

(7) If a law has been rescinded on the score of unconstitutionality or if the Constitutional Court has pursuant to para. 4 above pronounced a law to be unconstitutional, all courts and administrative authorities are bound by the Court's decision. The law shall however continue to apply to the circumstances effected before the rescission the case in point excepted, unless the Court in its rescissory judgment decides otherwise. If the Court has in its rescissory judgment set a deadline pursuant to para. 5 above, the law shall apply to all the circumstances effected, the case in point excepted till the expiry of this deadline.

The challenge (application) can be based on the alleged illegality of the electoral procedure or on a reason provided by law for the loss of membership in a popular representative body, in the European Parliament, in a municipal authority entrusted with executive power, or in a constituent authority (representative body) of a statutory professional association. The Court shall allow an electoral challenge if the alleged illegality has been proved and was of influence on the election result. In the proceedings before the administrative authorities the popular representative body or statutory professional association has litigant status.

(2) If a challenge pursuant to para. 1 sub-para. a above is allowed and it thereby becomes necessary to hold the election to a popular representative body, to the European Parliament or to a constituent authority of a statutory professional association in whole or in part again, the representative body's members concerned lose their seat at the time when it is assumed by those elected at the ballot which has to be held within a hundred days after delivery of the Constitutional Court's decision.

(3) The premises for a decision by the Constitutional Court in challenges to the result of initiatives, consultations of the people, or referenda will be prescribed by Federal law. (4) The condemnation by the Constitutional Court shall pronounce a forfeiture of office and, in particularly aggravating circumstances, also a temporary forfeiture of political rights. In the case of minor legal contraventions in the instances mentioned in para. 2 sub-paras. c, e, g and h above the Court can confine itself to the statement that the law has been contravened. From forfeiture of the office of president of the Land school board ensues forfeiture of the office with which pursuant to Art. 81a para. 3 sub-para. b it is linked.

The complaint can only be filed after all other stages of legal remedy have been exhausted.

(2) The Constitutional Court can before the proceedings decide to reject a hearing of a complaint if it has no reasonable prospect of success or if the decision cannot be expected to clarify a constitutional problem. The rejection of the hearing is inadmissible if the case at hand according to Art. 133 is barred from the competence of the Administrative Court.

(3) If the Constitutional Court finds that a right within the meaning of para. 1 above has not been infringed by the challenged ruling and if the case at hand is not in accordance with Art. 133 barred from the competence of the Administrative Court, the Court shall on the request of the applicant transfer the complaint to the Administrative Court for decision whether the applicant sustained by the ruling the infringement of any other right. This applies analogously in the case of decisions in accordance with para. 2 above.

Establishment of the fact entails loss of membership or the status of substitute membership.

Art. 148. Detailed provisions about the organization and procedure of the Constitutional Court will be prescribed by a special Federal law and in Standing Orders to be voted by the Constitutional Court on the basis of this.
